Unlike data-loggers that provide detailed information post-delivery, SenseAware uses sensor-based technology to communicate data about your shipment's integrity, security, and location. From operations and logistics to compliance and customer service, your company can use SenseAware to help reduce risk and boost profitability.

Why you need it

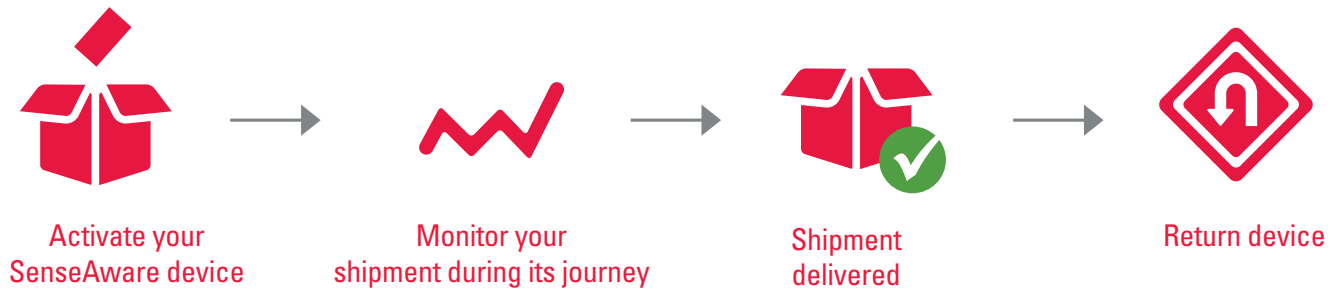

Make decisions to prevent or mitigate loss or damage and accelerate recovery.

Collaborate with multiple parties in real-time regarding intervention, compliance, and delivery.

Use data to implement process improvements throughout your supply chain or inventory management system.

Generate and archive reports to verify custodial control, ensure carrier compliance, and validate other processes.
